PRESS RELEASE

ESCP Europe ‘s Master in Management programme ranks number five worldwide

ESCP Europe has been ranked number five in the Financial Times Master in Management Ranking 2018. An amazing 98% of its students are employed just three months after graduation.

The ESCP Europe Master in Management delivers a unique student experience through a pan-European multi-campus management programme. Located in 6 European cities - Paris, London, Madrid, Berlin, Turin and Warsaw, ESCP Europe is also ranked number one in Germany, Spain, Italy and Poland.

The Masters in Management programme scored particularly well in the following categories: "weighted salary", "international course experience", "international mobility" and "number of faculty with doctorates".

Professor Frank Bournois, Dean of ESCP Europe, says: " We are delighted with this position: it reflects our commitment to inspire and educate tomorrow’s international business leaders. The timing could not be better as we celebrate our 200-year anniversary. As a result, events will take place on all campuses and involve all parts of the school’s rich international community from January 2019 to January 2020.

Professor Léon Laulusa, Dean for Academic and International Affairs “ESCP Europe continues to rank well on criteria that are vital in our global strategy. This international recognition strengthens the global strategy designed to develop a new generation of intercultural, business leaders, through a combination of innovative pedagogy, cross-campus programmes and a Research-active Faculty “

ESCP Europe’s London Campus has also been shortlisted for the prestigious UK Business School of the Year 2018 award as a part of the 14th annual Times Higher Education \(THE\) Awards. It is a third nomination for the School in this category in the last six years and the second year in succession that the School has made the shortlist.

Professor Simon Mercado, ESCP Europe's Dean at the London Campus remarks:

'ESCP Europe Business School is delighted to be recognised by the THE as one of the UK's leading business schools for the second year in succession. We would like to congratulate all shortlisted institutions in the various award categories.'

The year saw the continued expansion of one of the world's most innovative Bachelors programmes (BSc in Management) moving its students across three European countries, cultures and languages in three years. 2017 also witnessed the launch of a new MBA in International Management, a new Executive Master in Automation and Digital Transformation (EMMA), run in collaboration with the advanced robotics company COMAU, a new Msc in Entrepreneurship and Sustainable Innovation, a new Msc in Strategy and Digital Business and a new MSc in Big Data and Business Analytics.
