PRESS RELEASE

Professor Maria Koutsovoulou is appointed Associate Dean of the MBA in International Management at ESCP Europe

ESCP Europe is pleased to announce the nomination of Maria Koutsovoulou as the new Associate Dean of the MBA in International Management.

Dr. Koutsovoulou is a professor in the Management Department (SHO) and teaches negotiation, conflict management, organizational behavior and leadership. She is currently the Scientific Director of the Industrial Relations and Firm's Competitiveness Chair. Previously she was the Associate Dean of the "Manage as a Leader" executive programme, of the Master in Management Grande Ecole programme (2009-2010) and Dean for Academic Affairs of ESCP Europe (2011-2014).

Her areas of interest and research focus on the psychosociological processes of negotiation, on the decision-making process and on the link between social identity, conflict resolution and negotiation. As part of her research activities, she is a member of many associations including the Academy of Management (AOM), the European Group of Organizational Studies (EGOS) and the International Association for Conflict Management (IACM).

In addition to her academic activities, since 1999 Maria Koutsovoulou has been working as a consultant in numerous French and international organizations in the areas of change management, complexity management, strategic leadership, conflict management and negotiation. She also accompanies Executive committees, Management committees and Executives in the areas of complexity management and strategic leadership.

"I am proud to have been appointed at the head of the MBA in International Management, in partnership with Pascale Martin Saint Etienne, who was already present at the time of its launch a little over a year ago. It is a unique program composed of more than 80% of international students with very high potential, and which is distinguished by its multiculturalism and strong European roots. Our mission is to continue to build a strong link between the programme and companies and to make it an essential part of the training landscape for young leaders" says Maria Koutsovoulou.

"In this global competition, I have every confidence in Maria, who, thanks to her expertise, will be able to establish our MBA in International Management as one of the school's flagship programmes abroad" adds Léon Laulusa, Executive Vice-President of ESCP Europe and Dean for Academic Affairs - International Relations.
